Sessions

9:15 AM – 10:15 AM

Session 1 – Nonlinear Work: How AI Will Reshape Our Cities, Companies, and Careers

Dror Poleg

Economic Historian & Author

Drawing on insights from his upcoming book, Dror Poleg will explore how AI is exposing the growing mismatch between our industrial-era assumptions and today's rapidly evolving economy. What can the architecture of AI models tell us about the future of our cities, workplaces, and institutions?

Which historical and contemporary examples offer the best lessons for adapting to this shift?

How can we thrive amid extreme uncertainty and rapid change?

Join us for an in-depth discussion on the nonlinear forces reshaping how we work, manage, and build.

10:15 AM – 11:00 AM

Session 2 – Market Trends

Hemant Kishan

Director, Technology, Trascient

Rakesh Kishan

Managing Principal, Trascient

This session will delve into the pivotal trends influencing the corporate real estate sector as we approach the middle of 2025, with a focus on real estate, facilities management, and project development. We will examine best practices in corporate real estate amidst today's rapidly evolving landscape. Our discussion will cover the current workplace and market dynamics, highlighting the impact of emerging technologies and AI advancements on daily operations and drawing from our own technology survey data. Furthermore, we will explore how these factors are poised to shape the workplace strategies of the future.

Bryan Jacobs

President Global Occupier Services Head of Growth & Strategy, Cushman & Wakefield

Jessica R. Pernicone

Head of Solutions Development, JLL

Moderator:

Rakesh Kishan

Managing Principal, Trascient

A highlight of the conference the Supplier Executive Panel, always ignites engaging discussions. This year, our panelists will delve into the latest industry trends, address pressing challenges, and unveil their vision for the future. Discover how they are navigating the evolving expectations in today's dynamic workplace. Gain insights into crucial topics such as the expanding role of technology, sustainability, macro-economic pressures and the integration of AI. This open and interactive session invites lively audience participation, ensuring a rich exchange of ideas.

12:30 PM – 2:30 PM

Lunch & Campus Tour

Join us for lunch and a tour of ExxonMobil HQ's state of the art facility.

2:30 PM – 3:15 PM

Session 4 – Bricks, Bytes & Bots: The Real Estate Tech Stack Reinvented – If your space can talk, make sure someone's listening

Keitaro Bando

Senior Technical Program Manager, Microsoft

From managing operations to driving portfolio decisions, today's corporate real estate landscape spans far more than bricks and mortar. This session dives into the tech strategy behind unifying user experience, service delivery, and strategic intelligence—powered by automation, data, and AI.

Microsoft will share how the rise of hybrid work has pushed them to reimagine a static tech stack into an interconnected ecosystem, where rigid assumptions give way to dynamic, behavior-based analytics. By understanding how people truly use space, they're driving smarter, more adaptive occupancy strategies that evolve with the workforce. Discover how Microsoft are building a stack that delivers flexibility at the edge and consensus at the core, turning scattered systems into a connected platform that supports every layer of the CRE experience.

3:15 PM – 3:45 PM

Break

3:45 PM – 4:30 PM

Session 5 – Optimizing Workflows & Workforce: The Key to Efficient, Cost-Effective Maintenance

Vlad Bacalu

SVP Strategic & Technical Solutions, Amentum

Justin Barnhill

Managing Director, Amentum

Every work request is an opportunity—to improve efficiency, reduce costs, and maximize the value of facility operations. Achieving this requires more than just data; it demands a strategic approach to workflow optimization and workforce efficiency. In this session, we'll walk through the lifecycle of a work request—from initiation to completion—highlighting key decision points that impact scheduling, prioritization, and technician productivity. We'll explore when self-performance enhances control and efficiency, discuss best practices for leveraging data to drive smarter maintenance strategies, and share a case study on the benefits of mobile technology, demonstrating how it optimizes real-time work execution. Join us to uncover the future of maintenance—where operational excellence meets measurable impact.

4:45 PM – 5:30 PM
